“ Cory you were my first real love outside my family, and I thought about you daily after you moved away as well as Morgan and Rita. I don't think anyone outside you will ever understand the weird kind of love and infatuation we had as kids except for us. I'm sorry we grew apart truly, but I also believe we both found our true mates to make a family with mine being David. I truly hope you're smiling In heaven now, but I also believe you've been the one poking my shoulder late at night calling me a loser or an asshat and pulling my leg and poking my foot random yelling hey woman in my ear the last 3 months. Only because we did have a childhood connection and you're such a smartass. I hope you read this in heaven and know you're still thought about today and also know that you're loved like my own brother Cory. I wish you had known that better in life. And I hope you can hear my thoughts in death. You didnt deserve this Cory nor did the family you built. Rest in peace brother.

“ To my family....Cory will be sorely missed!! My mind is flooded with so many memories thru the years from birth to growing up always together...he certainly could find mischief and kept us all on our toes!! He loved family time then and grew up to be the wonderful man taking care of his own! It is so unfair to have left this world this soon!!! The emotions are like waves in the ocean some are like tidal waves and most of time in a situation uncontrollable!! Life is precious and we all will remember the good ole days!!

All my love Aunt T

“ I've known Cory since he was 14yrs young. Never in a million years did I think we would be going through life without you. I'm hurting, I'm angry, and my heart is breaking. I just don't understand why it was your time. I'll never understand. You were so much fun to be around. You could never not laugh around you. Your stories and jokes made everybody smile. Even that smart mouth. Haha... Cory I know we will meet again and a part of me isn't afraid of that day because I know you will be there with open arms, but until then please wrap your ever loving angel wings around your family. They need you more than ever. We all love you so much and will never ever forget you. We love you always and forever. -Dorian P.

“ It would take me forever to tell you all the laughs we had in the short 5 years I knew Cory. From going thru hell at work together, to battling it out on the basketball court, to eating good BBQ together, we had some great times. The world has lost an person that can never be replaced. It's still so hard to believe you're gone bro. I pray you come and visit or look in on me from time to time. As in life, the door is always opened to you. We love you and we miss you bro. Until we meet again my brother.

“ What i remember most about this young man was:
He was a very loving son to his mother and what a great brother he was to his two sisters.seems he only wanted the best for all of them and how he worried about his sisters.i remember how close he was to morgan.it is with much sadness,to learn of his passing.i will continue to pray for this family as they grieve and pray that the Good lord above will help them though the healing process in the months to come.let the family find comfort in all the precious memories they shared together and the great joy he brought to their lives and all that knew him.
