“ It's so weird how you can be neighbors for 6 years yet give one another a wave, smile or nod. My heart hurts even though I didn't know him personally. My heart grieves for his wife that I talked to from time to time. I am so sorry for your loss. Also, his kids. I pray for y'all strength to get through this tragic time. Much love and peace.

“ Bill's quiet and unassuming strength and friendship endures. I enjoy and think fondly of his wonderful ability cut through the stress, see how silly things could be, find humor in it all and just get on with the day. On one particular work trip, we found ourselves enjoying an Irish whiskey together; vowed we would each get ourselves a bottle when we got home (which we did), and laughed at the days events. Now, I cherish that time even more. It is my honor to know Bill and I think of his influence with both a feeling of great sadness and joy.

“ Bill was a great, intelligent, caring, and kind person. Although I worked with Bill, I considered him a friend. We would frequently meet up after work to decompress and just have a good time. Bill and I once played in a bowling tournament together. I will cherish the bonding moments we had during during those times. Bill, you will be missed.
